

INTRODUCING

The Woman at the Sunshine Factory

When the woman Brian is falling for is suddenly taken into ICE detention, he is thrust into a life he never expected—one defined by silence, fear, and the urgent decisions that must be made in the absence of answers.

With no updates, no contact, and no way to reach her, Brian begins the difficult work of staying ready for a future he cannot predict. He navigates lawyers and deadlines, repairs a home that might one day welcome her back, and learns how to keep moving when nothing around him feels steady.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Brian is a writer based in Minnesota whose work explores resilience, love, and the quiet emotional terrain of ordinary lives under extraordinary pressure. With a background in technology and leadership, he brings a clear, steady voice to stories shaped by uncertainty and human connection. The Woman at the Sunshine Factory is his debut memoir.
